What is a connective?

A connective is a word or phrase used to link words, phrases, clauses, or sentences together.

because      as      if      but      and      so when      which      while      before      after

WALT: Link sentences using an increased range of connectives.

Connectives are important to use in our writing as they allow us to extend our sentences and give more detail to readers.

Over the next few lessons, we are going to use connectives to write an explanation piece on an inspirational person.

Let's read this together.

Marcus Rashford is a famous professional footballer from England who plays for Manchester United. Although millions of sports fans know him for scoring brilliant goals on the pitch, he is even more famous for helping vulnerable people off the field. Because of his kindness and determination, young people around the world look up to him as a true hero.

Marcus grew up in Manchester with his mother and brothers. When he was a child, his family did not have much money, so his mother worked very hard to put food on the table. Despite these early difficulties, Marcus stayed focused on his sport. As a result of his dedication, he joined a major football academy and became an international star for England.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, Marcus noticed that many children were at risk of going hungry because schools were closed. Therefore, he decided to take action immediately. For example, he partnered with the food charity and helped raise around £20 million to provide free meals for struggling families. In addition, he wrote powerful letters to government leaders asking them to support free school meals. His campaign persuaded politicians to extend meal vouchers for children across the country.

Marcus Rashford proves that success is not just about winning trophies. Moreover, the British Royal Family awarded him a special award to honor his charity work. Ultimately, Marcus is an inspirational role model to me because he uses his fame to speak up for people in need.
