

English

Unit 1 - My World

Monday 24th August 2026

WALT: Use an increasing range of prepositions before nouns and adjectives in prepositional phrases.

WALT: Use an increasing range of prepositions before nouns and adjectives in prepositional phrases.

I can add the correct preposition to a sentence.

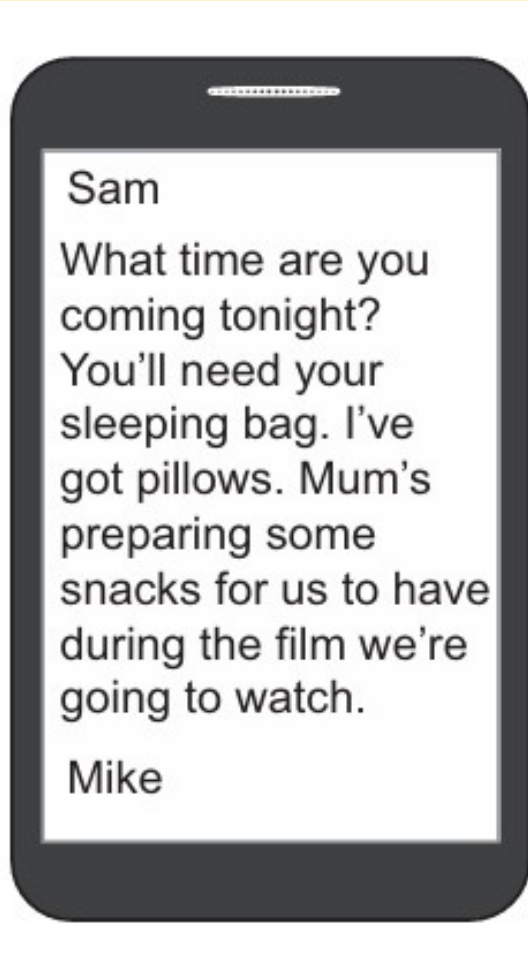

I can write my own sentences using prepositions correctly.

I can give feedback on the prepositional sentences of other students.

WALT: Use an increasing range of prepositions before nouns and adjectives in prepositional phrases.

Retrieval Practice

Sam

What time are you coming tonight?
You'll need your sleeping bag. I've got pillows. Mum's preparing some snacks for us to have during the film we're going to watch.

Mike

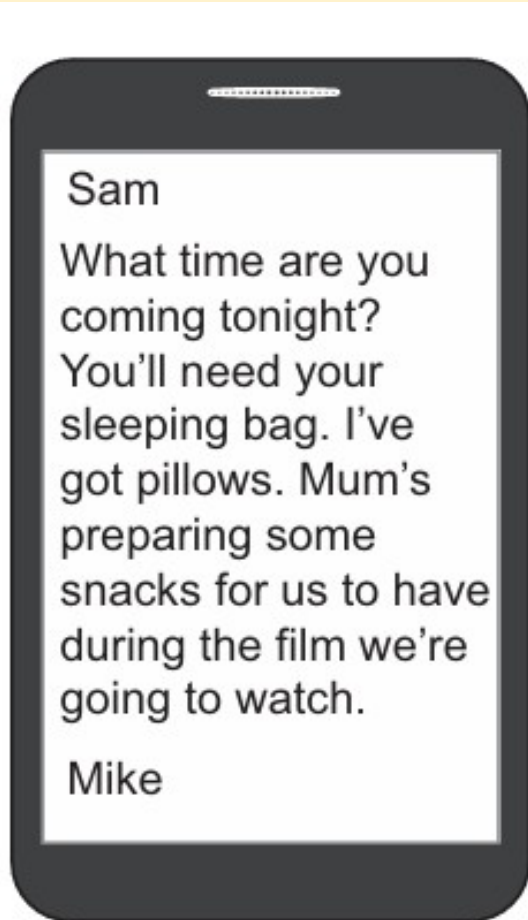

What is Mike doing in this message?

- A inviting Sam to his home this evening
- B suggesting things he and Sam could do together
- C telling Sam what he should bring when he visits

[1]

WALT: Use an increasing range of prepositions before nouns and adjectives in prepositional phrases.

Retrieval Practice

Sam

What time are you coming tonight?
You'll need your sleeping bag. I've got pillows. Mum's preparing some snacks for us to have during the film we're going to watch.

Mike

What is Mike doing in this message?

- A inviting Sam to his home this evening
- B suggesting things he and Sam could do together
- C telling Sam what he should bring when he visits

[1]

WALT: Use an increasing range of prepositions before nouns and adjectives in prepositional phrases.

Starter- Can you spot the mistakes in these prepositional sentences?

a) This chocolate is of Ghana.

b) He has the same name with me.

WALT: Use an increasing range of prepositions before nouns and adjectives in prepositional phrases.

Starter- Can you spot the mistakes in these prepositional sentences?

a) This chocolate is from Ghana.

b) He has the same name as me.

WALT: Use an increasing range of prepositions before nouns and adjectives in prepositional phrases.

What is a preposition?

A preposition is a word that shows the relationship between words.

It often tells us about:

Place: in, on, under, behind, in front of, beside, between, etc.

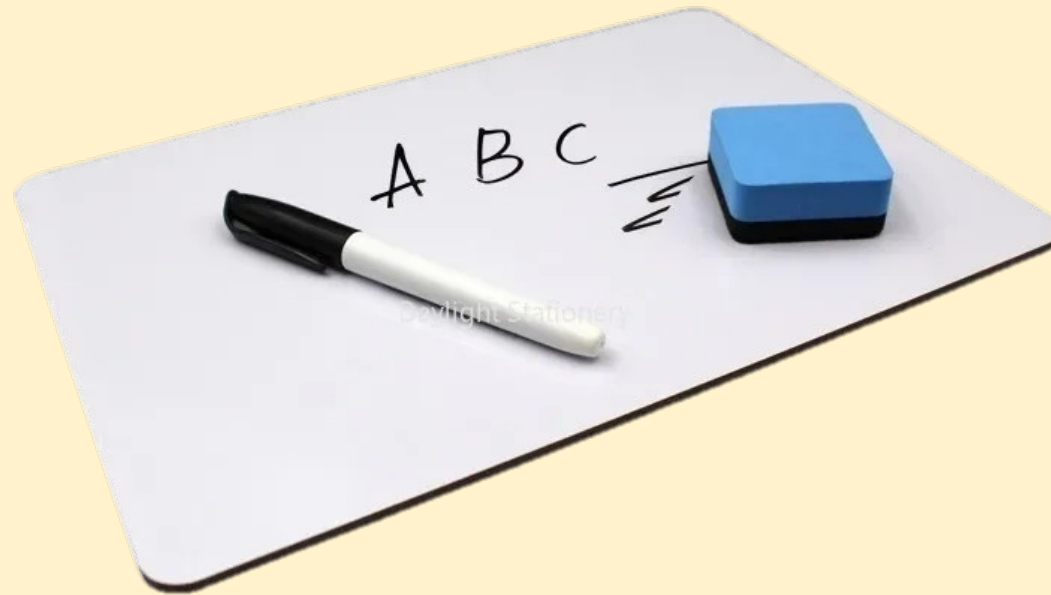

Time: at, on, in, before, after, during, since, until, etc.

Direction: to, from, into, out of, up, down, etc.

Manner: by, with, without, like, etc.

WALT: Use an increasing range of prepositions before nouns and adjectives in prepositional phrases.

What prepositions do you know?

WALT: Use an increasing range of prepositions preceding nouns and adjectives in prepositional phrases.

Copy these sentences into your notebook including the correct preposition:

a) Mongolia is between China and Russia.

b) Lots of people travel Vietnam to train, travelling from north to south.

c) Lines of latitude are parallel into the equator.

d) The world is divided from 7 continents.

e) Ms. Colette is in the U.K.

Write your own sentences

using as many different prepositions as you can.

Swap sentences with someone else who is finished and given them

WALT: Use an increasing range of prepositions preceding nouns and adjectives in prepositional phrases.

I can add the correct preposition to a sentence.

I can write my own sentences
using prepositions correctly.

I can give feedback on the prepositional sentences of other students.

WALT: Use an increasing range of prepositions preceding nouns and adjectives in prepositional phrases.

Plenary – Use the prepositions and nouns on the board to think of a sentence.

of an orange

to the south

to the west

between the mountains

in the

in the