English

Unit 3 – Living Things

Friday 23rd October 2026

WALT: Use an increasing range of defining relative clauses (e.g. with whose and whom) and begin to use non-defining relative clauses.

WALT: Use an increasing range of defining relative clauses (e.g. with whose and whom) and begin to use non-defining relative clauses.

I can match who, whom and whose to an explanation of when we use them.

I can add who, whom and whose correctly as a relative pronoun in a sentence.

I can write my own sentences using who, whom and whose correctly.

WALT: Use an increasing range of defining relative clauses (e.g. with whose and whom) and begin to use non-defining relative clauses.

Retrieval Practice

https://englishpracticetest.net/practice-listening-test-for-b1-with-answer-and-audioscript-test-02/

8 Simon's mum decided to take him to the climbing centre because

A she had enjoyed going there.

B her friend had recommended it.

C Simon had been there with his school.

9 Before he went to the centre, Simon was

A worried about going climbing there.

B interested in seeing the climbing wall.

C disappointed to hear it was all indoors.

10 Simon says that at the centre there were

A lots of people when it opened.

B many different types of people.

C no other people his age.

11 What did Simon think about the climbing wall?

A He thought it looked very high.

B He was afraid he might fall.

C He found the foot holes helpful.

WALT: Know that animals including humans need air, water and suitable food to survive.

Starter – What do animals need to survive? Why do they need these things?

Air

Animals need air because they need the oxygen in it for respiration. Respiration is needed to get energy from glucose.

Water

Water is needed to carry important nutrients into and out of cells.

Suitable Food

Animals need food for glucose (energy) and other nutrients. Different animals need different food.

WALT: Use an increasing range of defining relative clauses (e.g. with whose and whom) and begin to use non-defining relative clauses.

Who vs Whom

Use who when the person is the subject doing an action.

Use whom when the person is the object receiving an action or following a preposition.

WALT: Use an increasing range of defining relative clauses (e.g. with whose and whom) and begin to use non-defining relative clauses.

Who vs Whom

Use who when the subject is performing the action.

Use whom when the subject is receiving the action.

Kim is an athlete who enjoys distance running.

Asher wrote a letter to a pen pal whom he had never met.

WALT: Use an increasing range of defining relative clauses (e.g. with whose and whom) and begin to use non-defining relative clauses.

Who and Whom in Relative Clauses

Within the clause alone (not the whole sentence), if the pronoun is a subject, then who is correct; if the pronoun is an object, then whom is proper.

For example:

I am scared of the old woman who lives on Main Street.

Many people dislike the new chairman whom we have elected.

WALT: Use an increasing range of defining relative clauses (e.g. with whose and whom) and begin to use non-defining relative clauses.

Whose

We use whose to introduce a relative clause showing possession by people, animals and things

E.g. John works with that other man whose name I can't remember.

WALT: Use an increasing range of defining relative clauses (e.g. with whose and whom) and begin to use non-defining relative clauses.

Match the relative pronoun to the explanation of when we use them.

Who		Shows possession.
Whom		When the word is receiving the action. (object)
Whose		When the word is performing the action. (subject)

Add "who", "whom" or "whose" to these sentences.

The person _____ I met yesterday is my new friend.

The woman _____ lives next door is a doctor.

The girl _____ dog got lost is very sad.

The house _____ roof was damaged by the storm needs repairs.

The teacher _____ I admire the most is Mr. Jon.

Write your own sentences using "who", "whom" and "whose" correctly.

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

4. _____

WALT: Use an increasing range of defining relative clauses (e.g. with whose and whom) and begin to use non-defining relative clauses.

Match the relative pronoun to the explanation of when we use them.

Who		Shows possession.
Whom		When the word is receiving the action. (object)
Whose		When the word is performing the action. (subject)

WALT: Use an increasing range of defining relative clauses (e.g. with whose and whom) and begin to use non-defining relative clauses.

Add "who", "whom" or "whose" to these sentences.

The person ____who____ I met yesterday is my new friend.

The woman ____Who____ lives next door is a doctor.

The girl ____whose____ dog got lost is very sad.

The house ____whose____ roof was damaged by the storm needs repairs.

The teacher ____whom____ I admire the most is Mr. Jon.

WALT: Use an increasing range of defining relative clauses (e.g. with whose and whom) and begin to use non-defining relative clauses.

I can match who, whom and whose to an explanation of when we use them.

I can add who, whom and whose correctly as a relative pronoun in a sentence.

I can write my own sentences using who, whom and whose correctly.